The annual 'Long Lunch @ Strathclyde' in aid of the Fred Hollows Foundation was held on Saturday 20 May, and this year was not only blessed with sunshine but also guests with deep pockets.

The lunch this year raised over $7000 - doubling the amount that was raised in 2016. The event was held at a private homestead in Hebden in the Upper Hunter and hosted by two local champions of the work that the Fred Hollows Foundation undertake. Co-hosts Ross Clydsdale and John Galloway were delighted at the outcome, especially as the Fred Hollows Foundation not only celebrate 25 years this year, but on the eve before the Hebden event they received news the Fred Hollows Foundation had just restored eyesight to their 1 millionth patient.

Co-host Ross Clydsdale said: "We believe very much in Fred Hollows vision that it's obscene to let people go blind when they don't have to. We were both over-the-moon that we not only surpassed the 2016 target but doubled the amount."

$175,000 to fight noxious weeds in the Upper Hunter Shire

Upper Hunter Shire Council will contribute an additional $28,550 each year over the next four years to help stop the spread of the worst invasive plants. The funding is in addition to Council's annual contribution which in 2016/17 was $144,000.

Noxious weed-management is undertaken by the Upper Hunter County Council (weeds), a combined initiative of Upper Hunter, Muswellbrook and Singleton shire councils.

Across the three shires, hundreds of hectares of high risk sites and several hundred kilometres of pathways are treated for noxious plants on public lands every year.

The plants treated include Mother of Millions, Green Cestrum, Scotch Broom, African Boxthorns, Paterson's Curse, Prickly Pear and Tiger Pear.

Treatments can include the breeding and distribution of insects that target particular noxious weeds.

The County Council also inspects over 1000 public properties for noxious plants as well as all nurseries and other outlets that sell plants.

Weed Control handbooks and other education material is distributed to raise awareness of the problem.

A passion for the arts

Take a ramble through the decorative world of Margaret Preston with Tom Thompson who will speak at Scone ADFAS on June 6 at the Scone Arts & Crafts Centre.

Margaret Preston was an influential Australian landscape and still-life artist of the early 20th Century. Margaret constantly experimented with a variety of media, producing still lifes, vibrant prints and hand-coloured woodcuts. Her dynamic designs and unerring sense of colour allowed her to break traditional barriers.

Mr Thompson will follow up his talk with a half-study day on June 7. He will share the highs and lows of his career. Tom Thompson is a publisher of Australian Literature and History. Tom's Hidden Treasures programme with Tony Delroy's Night Life has continued for over fifteen years. Tom has also worked with the Collectors programme with Claudia Chan Shaw. Local filmmakers homecoming production for women in film

Three female Novocastrian filmmakers are returning to make a film in the Hunter region after spending several years interstate developing their craft.

Producer Catherine Williams, Writer/Director Heidi Lee Douglas and Director of Photography Meg White are collaborating to make their film 'Devil Woman'. An environmental horror film that will be filmed near Dungog during May. Actors from the Newcastle and Central Coast area gained the lead roles for Devil Woman.

The lead actors are Marigold Pazar, Flame Kimball, Peter Healy and Shaun Anthony Robinson. The filmmakers wouldn't be able to do this film locally without the help of the local community. To do this they are employing as many locals as possible in both head of department and assisting roles together with running a crowd funding campaign to assist with covering some of the production costs.

Two sharks in Newcastle

At a signature event on Tuesday, 16 May 2017, Newcastle Business Club invited well-known entrepreneurs and 'sharks', Naomi Simson and Dr Glen Richards, to talk about their business journeys but also to hear pitches from local entrepreneurs. In conjunction with KOFM, Newcastle Business Club ran a competition, including not only a $15,000 advertising package for the winner, but also the opportunity to meet and pitch to Ms Simson and Dr Richards.

Ilan Jones and Shane Fox from Merchant Business Brokers and centre is Naomi Simson and Glen Richards from Shark Tank.

Whilst there could be only one winner, announced by KOFM's Tanya Wilks, - Mae Laine, an Australian lifestyle brand by Kylie Wiblen - the competition judges also thought another entrepreneurial business deserved a mention - CoverMe by Tony Singh. Newcastle Business Club president, Dene Kilpatrick, said the two entrepreneurs provided an indication of the amazing businesses being borne in the region. "Both Naomi and Glen were impressed with the businesses chosen to pitch to them - from very different ends of the scale," Dene said. "They provided great feedback and advice to Kylie and Tony, but also encouraged the room to support local startups."

The event was sponsored by Merchant Business Brokers and co-founder Shane Fox said it was an exciting and inspiration event. "As a business owner I attend many events, but this one stands out for me, as it had a lot packed into a short time!" Shane said. "We got to hear some valuable words of wisdom from people who have done the hard yards, as well as learn about some emerging businesses and their plans for the future."
