Young mining apprentices celebrated

Designed for first-year apprentices in partnership with the mining industry, the 15-week program places a strong emphasis on safety awareness to prepare them for work on-site. The course delivered by TAFE NSW Muswellbrook covers training in basic hand tool skills across four different trades including electrical, fitting and machining, metal fabrication and welding, and automotive.

TAFE NSW Regional General Manager North Elizabeth McGregor said the Mining Skills Centre program is a wonderful example of collaboration with council, industry and the wider community delivering great employment and education outcomes for the Upper Hunter.

"At TAFE NSW we are passionate about developing the skills and capabilities of our local workforce and understand the impact this has on shaping the future of the region," said Ms McGregor.

MIGAS plant mechanic apprentice Christopher Scriven was recognised on the evening with the Highest Achiever Award for his dedication to work at Bengalla Mine, approach to study, and attaining the highest overall grade throughout the program.

Plant mechanic apprentices Jessica Bonnici and Jackson Hopkins were both presented with Outstanding Student awards for their application to their studies. Jessica is an apprentice with Programmed and employed by Coal & Allied, whilst Jackson is employed as an apprentice at BHP Mt Arthur Coal.

The evening included the presentation of the annual MEMMES Scholarships awarded to BHP Mt Arthur Coal electrical apprentice Blake Pickham and plant mechanic Bradley Kirkwood.

The scholarship was established by the Mining Electrical and Mining Mechanical Engineering Society and provides financial assistance to past Mining Skills Program graduates who are pursuing post-trade qualifications in order to advance their careers in the industry.

Qualified electrician Eila Mills was awarded a highly-commended for her commitment to education and training. The 23-year-old is in the third year of her apprenticeship and has already committed to undertaking post trade qualifications, having commenced her Certificate IV in Industrial Electronics and Control this year.

'A Silent Agreement' in Muswellbrook

Have you ever wanted to act on a real life movie set? You could get your chance when Writer/Director Davo Hardy films an epilogue scene for his latest project A Silent Agreement in Muswellbrook in early June.

The producers are looking for up to 100 local people to use as extras for this scene. The filming will take place at the Muswellbrook Cinema on Monday 5th June between 12.00pm and 3.45pm. While extras won't be paid, they will get the chance to be in a new Australian feature film that will have a special pre-release premiere in Muswellbrook towards the end of the year. It will also give some of our local young film/writing folks the opportunity of working on a professional film set.

Registrations have opened at the Muswellbrook Cinema Foyer between 12.00pm and 1.30pm daily until Thursday 25 May. To find out more look up A Silent Agreement on Facebook.

Commemorating significant milestones

This year's Reconciliation Week marks the 50th anniversary of the successful 1967 Referendum and the 25th anniversary of the Mabo decision.

The 1967 referendum on May 27 saw over 90 per cent of Australians vote to give the Commonwealth the power to make laws for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples and recognise them in the national census. June 3 commemorates the High Court of Australia's landmark Mabo decision in 1992, which legally recognised that Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples have a special relationship to the land—a relationship that existed prior to colonisation and still exists today. This recognition paved the way for land rights or Native Title. The theme for 2017 is "Let's take the next steps."

Reconciliation Week provides a great opportunity to take the next steps by the community coming together to mark this important year for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people, with a range of activities to mark the occasion planned throughout the Upper Hunter between 27 May and 3 June.

Dog noise phobias

Noise sensitivities are a very common problem in many dogs, and if left untreated may escalate to true phobia.

When a dog is highly anxious, reactions to noise can be heightened significantly. Typically, common noises dogs find panicking include things like thunder, fireworks, gun shots, vacuum cleaners, lawn mowers and whipper snippers. Some dogs will react to less obvious noises, like wind, rattling windows and dropping things on the floor.

This is a manifestation of the "flight" part of anxiety. Behaviours can include pacing, excessive vocalising, excessive salivation, barking, hiding underneath objects, shaking, trying to escape from a confined space, staying excessively close to their family, urinating, diarrhoea, vomiting, destructive behaviour and refusing to eat or drink. These behaviours range from mild (an increased startle reflex from which the dog recovers quickly) to severe, phobic signs (extreme avoidance, escape, comfort seeking behaviours which are of excessive frequency, duration and cannot be redirected or minimised). These behaviours may be linked to an overarching anxiety disorder, or may only be situation specific.

Just like us, animals cannot learn when they are stressed and medication may be needed to enable to animal to learn how to cope with the stress of these. At Pet Medical we have expertise in animal behaviour and can help your pet cope with phobias and anxieties.

Book in to see Dr Mel Prunster and get some relief for the anxiety your pet faces with noise fear.

Mike Thew's 35 years Scone horse industry service honoured

By Brian Russell

Brian Agnew a dynamic young Sydney legal identity, who 35 years ago, established Wakefield Stud is recalled again through recognition for his services of the horseman who shaped his early involvement in the industry, Michael Thew (pictured at Crowningstone), at the Hunter Valley Thoroughbred Breeders' Association's Annual Awards night at the Scone racecourse on May 10.

Michael was presented with the Murray Bain Services to Industry Award, one in which itself honours the late Murray Bain.

Mike Thew has been involved in the industry at Scone for over 35 years, beginning back in 1981. He also helped the now-deceased Agnew develop his broodmare band and pioneered the now-common practice of walking in mares for service.

Michael oversaw the transition to Redbank, a farm which was in a very run down condition, but a former schoolteacher, he shortly afterwards accepted an invitation to join the staff of the new TAFE college at the racing complex at Scone. Here for nearly two decades as head teacher of Agriculture and Equine studies, he applied his life-long passion, knowledge and hands on experience training and mentoring the next generation of Hunter horsemen and women.

During his time with Scone TAFE, Mike was instrumental in implementing the equine nursing course, farrier courses, horse management and husbandry, night watch foaling and other agricultural and certificate courses.

In 2000 Mike and Mia Thew purchased a farm in the same region west of Scone where he started and developed from scratch an agistment farm under the banner of Crowningstone. The name is adapted from Stone of Scone aka The Stone of Destiny or the Crowning Stone, one that sat under the throne upon which all the ancient Scottish kings were crowned at Scone in Scotland.

Besides breeding horses and his TAFE contribution, Mike Thew has been significant in the community. He has been a president of the Scone Horse Festival committee and the Scone Pony Club, committee member of the Scone Race Club and a valued member of the Hunter Thoroughbred Breeders' Association committee.
